The latest java plug in (Java 7u51) creates a problem for the Faces calendar.

One way to solve it is to make an exception rule for our server 128.192.9.9 (faces.ccruc.uga.edu).

- If you are using a Windows operating system, click on Start Button, then choose Control Panel.
- Enter "Java" in the search text area on the top right of the window that appears. This will get you to the Java Control Panel.
- If you are using a Mac operating system, click on the apple icon, choose "system preferences" and click on the "Java" icon to get to the Java Control Panel.
- Once you have opened the Java Control Panel, click on the 'Security' tab.
- Click on the 'Edit Site List', then click on the 'Add' Button and type in the following text.
`http://128.192.9.9`
Click "OK" and the Faces Calendar should work.

In some instances, the 'Edit Site List' button will not be visible. This often occurs when more than one version of the Java plug-in is installed on your computer (including the latest one - java7u51). In that case, it is necessary to uninstall all the old versions of java except the latest one (java7up51). Then the 'Edit Site List' button should become visible.

We are busy working on a permanent solution for this problem. This will also make Faces accessible on smart devices like the iPhone.

Thanks for using Faces!
